

About Magician Peter Wood:

When Peter Wood said he wanted a magician at his fifth birthday, his parents bought him a magic set! Little did they know that it would grow into his hobby, career, and life-long passion.

1994 was an important year in Peter's life: not only did he turn a decade old, but he also began performing magic shows professionally, naming his business "Shazam Magic." His mom helped him with costumes and ideas, while his dad drove him to shows and helped him build tricks in the woodshop.

Throughout high school and college, Peter continued performing magic professionally. He draws inspiration from old books, illusions, and performers, then gives each routine his own unique twist. Peter's shows feel like a parlor performance from centuries ago, while his originality guarantees a new experience for the audience.

Today, Peter is a full-time professional magician; his clients include corporations like Frito-Lay, Toys R Us, and USA Today, as well as government organizations including the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the United States Marine Corps.

When not performing, Peter provides magic and special effects design and consultation for film, theatre, and themed attractions. He holds a Technical Theatre degree from the University of Maryland, Baltimore County, and is a member of the Society of American Magicians and the International Brotherhood of Magicians.
